

Program Overview:

The American Legion Keystone Boys State (KBS) is conducted on a “learn by doing” basis whereby the selected citizens practice the procedures and operations of the various branches of city, county and state legislature. The hands-on format at KBS has the youthful citizens forming and operating fictitious cities, four counties, and one state; they also form and operate two fictitious political parties; conduct all local and state law enforcement and judicial systems; form and conduct a bicameral state legislature. The statutes and codes of the State of Pennsylvania are used while building our State of Keystone.

Citizens at Keystone Boys State will use knowledge already acquired and new skills that they develop during the week. The effort to get everyone involved manifests itself by having every “citizen” elected, selected, assigned or appointed to leadership positions throughout

The curriculum calls for city governments to be formed first (City Council, School Board, Chamber of Commerce, Homeland Security Committee, etc.). With the election of the city leadership and installation of officers, all branches of the city begin to function under student leadership. Political parties are then formed, county and state conventions are convened, and each participant becomes a “proactive citizen”. Aspirants to city, county and state offices file for a position and campaign for it, and utilize their respective political parties.

The Pennsylvania American Legion Keystone Boys State program is an educational workshop for high school student leaders, such as student government officers, athletic team captains, and prominent student organization officers. Students selected to attend Boys State will have the opportunity to gain leadership skills through a variety of activities and presentations during the weeklong program. The hallmark and focus of Keystone Boys State is its experientially based government exercise, which spans the city, county and state levels of involvement. Participants will take on roles in the organization and operation of a mock city, county and state government.

From a Citizen:

"The week I spent at Boys State was undoubtedly one of the most unique and important experiences of my life. There was never a dull moment at KBS – from staying up through the early morning to finish legislation with roommates, simulating state House and Senate meetings, and forming close bonds with those around me. My fellow citizens were all extremely dedicated and passionate about the activities of the week, and still managed to share many laughs and good times. Being organized into separate cities, counties and political parties gave me a chance to interact with many different citizens, as well as experience numerous aspects of the political process."
